SCUTARI IS CAPTURED?

[Associated Press Cable]
LONDON, Dec. 29.—With the report current that the fortified city of Scutari has at last fallen before the battering cannons of the Montenegrins, after a siege that began with the opening of the Balkan war, the representatives of the Balkan Allies here in conference with the representatives of Turkey have announced that they are preparing an ultimatum, with the terms of which Turkey will have to agree or submit the matter of a loss of territory to a further arbitration of war. The envoys of the allied states announce that their governments are weary of the constant delay asked for by the Turkish envoys and have determined to either have the Turks accept their peace terms at the council board or be driven out of Europe at the point of the bayonet.

Over-Night FEDERAL Wireless To the Advertiser

According to official information supplied by the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Mail, the Hamburg-American Steamship Company has decided to enter into active competition with Cunard, American and Japanese lines for the Pacific trade.

With from 80,000 to 125,000 members of the United Male Garment Workers of America out on strike in New York, today and the probability that 200,000 workers of both sexes will be involved, what promises to be the greatest clothing strike in the history of the country started today. The strikers are receiving solid backing from Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and other prominent women. It is predicted that the strike will extend to the makers of women's waists and the dressmakers' union.

After breakfasting at St. Augustine, Fla., President Taft took an auto ride through the city today and left on his private car at noon, which was packed with Christmas presents, including personal gifts from close friends. The President will arrive in Washington tomorrow morning.

The silver cups awarded annually in the Asiatic and Pacific fleets for the highest aggregate in target practice have been won this year by the gunboat Helena of the Asiatic and the cruiser South Dakota in the Pacific fleet.

With the British armored cruiser Natal, bearing the body of Whitehall Reid, who was American ambassador to the Court of St. James, nearing the port of New York, preparations have been completed for a large and impressive funeral to be held January 4 in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Mrs. Reid, the widow, with other members of the family, arrived yesterday on board the steamship Campania, preceding the body of the late ambassador by a few hours. The British cruiser is expected to get into the harbor some time today. The President and other high officials of the government and state are expected to attend the funeral.

The visit of Oscar Underwood, Democratic leader of the house, to President-elect Wilson at Princeton tomorrow is expected to result in a general understanding between the incoming Democratic executive and the Democratic organization of the house as to the early plans for tariff hearings and tariff revision.

President-elect Wilson today began his conference with Democratic members of both houses of congress whom he intends to consult about men and policies for administration.

J. Hamilton Lewis, endorsed for United States senator from Illinois primaries, was his first visitor. Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, Luke Lea of Tennessee, Senator Chamberlain of Oregon and Representative William Redfield of Brooklyn saw the President-elect at different hours during the day.

Sentences were imposed by Federal Judge Anderson, of Indianapolis, today on the labor men convicted of conspiracy to illegally transport dynamite.

When Judge Anderson arrived and took his place on the bench, District Attorney Miller moved that the convicted men be sentenced. Defense Attorney Krum immediately asked for a new trial. This was denied. A motion to stay judgment was overruled.

McManigal Truthful
Before sentencing the defendants, Judge Anderson read in part a written statement:

"Two of the defendants, Orrie McManigal and Edward Clark, pleaded guilty and testified to knowledge of the conspiracy and of participating in its execution. The principal of these is McManigal, whose story on the witness stand was given in such a manner as to carry a conviction of truth. This campaign of dynamiting was entered into and carried on throughout the country, from the Atlantic to the Pacific and it necessarily involved the illegal transportation of dynamite and nitroglycerin.

"I won't believe that organized labor approves of such practices. Any organization approving or adopting the methods of these defendants is an outlaw and will meet the fate that outlaws have met since civilized society began.

Guilty of Murder
"The evidence shows that some of the defendants are guilty of murder, but they are not charged with that crime. This court cannot punish them for murder, nor should it be influenced by any such consideration in facing the music of punishment for the crimes charged."

MISSION WORK

tion made the following statements: "Our membership in this mission has increased this year from 1161 to 1782. This is an increase of about twenty-one per cent. Evidently our work in these islands is yielding large returns. In recent years the development of the sugar and pineapple industries in Hawaii has resulted in the influx of a large Oriental population. Today there are about 90,000 Japanese on the Hawaiian Islands, 25,000 Chinese and 6000 Koreans. The coming of this large number of different races has placed a great responsibility upon the Christian church of America. The Methodist Episcopal church is trying to do her full share in meeting this providential responsibility. Her mission on these islands was organized in 1904. Prior to this the mission work was done under the direction of the California Conference. The work among the Japanese was founded by a Japanese convert, K. Miyama, about 1888, and a mission was for some years sustained by them without any outside assistance.

"In 1894 Rev. H. W. Peck organized an English church in Honolulu and also nourished the Japanese mission. He was succeeded by Rev. G. L. Pearson who, in addition to being pastor of the English church, supervised the Japanese work. He also started the work among the Koreans in 1904. At the latter date the total membership among both Japanese and Koreans was 425. Since that time the growth of these missions has been headlong, rapid and decidedly encouraging.

"Since 1904 the mission work among these denationalities in all the islands has been under the supervision of Rev. W. J. Wadman, and who is still the superintendent. Before undertaking this work, Dr. Wadman was for fifteen years a missionary in Japan.

Following are a few interesting statistics:
Number of mission stations on islands 92
Number of native workers employed 35
Number of mission chapels 34
Number of Sunday schools 63
Number of children in schools 1817
Number of students in day and night schools 423
Number of conversions last year 800
Amount raised by native churches last year $6,866

Among the mission churches in the islands there is only one which is English-speaking, and that is located in Honolulu. This beautiful and commodious edifice is the headquarters for the administration of the mission work in the islands. There is also a Korean boys' school which is valued at $20,000, and is crowded with Korean youth eager for an education.

Ever since his arrival in the islands, Dr. Wadman has taken interest in the welfare of the Koreans, and has lately taken up a considerable work among the Filipinos, and his latest achievement in the latter undertaking was the establishment some weeks ago of a brand new mission for these people on Queen street near Richards. Seeing the need of such a mission, Dr. Wadman went quietly to work, and with the assistance of a bright young Filipino, Benito Ilustre, the little mission was established, and has been holding meetings on Sundays and at other times with the greatest success. Dr. Wadman has great confidence in the Filipinos, and he is proud of this new accomplishment, and well should he be.

Three new buildings are now in progress among the different Oriental congregations. One of these is a pretty Japanese church on the corner of King street and Kalaheka avenue, of which Rev. G. Motokawa is the pastor, and which will be dedicated by Bishop Lucock when he arrives at Honolulu the latter part of next February to preside at a meeting of the missions. The other is a church building for the Koreans on the corner of Beretania avenue and Punchbowl street, while the third is a parsonage for the pastor of the River street Japanese church.

GOOD GOVERNMENT MOVEMENTS EVOLVE DURING YEAR 1912

Inspiring as has been Hawaii's progress in all lines of endeavor and achievement during the year 1912, perhaps the most inspiring, the most notable progress of all has been in toward a higher plane of public administration. Two movements of territory-wide importance deserve mention as directly conducive to raising the plane of public office-holding, good government, efficiency in handling territorial and municipal affairs. The first of these movements was the civic convention held at Hilo, Hawaii, beginning September 26. This civic convention took up important questions of public policy and government administration. The question of forming a territorial civic body was referred back to the various commercial and civic bodies for individual action. During the convention some notable addresses were made by prominent men of the territory.

Another movement of great public importance is that for a commission or short-ballot form of government for Honolulu. This has been discussed for two or three years and suggested in the message of the governor to the legislature of 1911. On November 27, 1912, Governor Frear delivered a striking address at the annual meeting of the Men's League of Central Union church, in which address he summarized the experience of other cities with commission government and urged that Honolulu try the system. Following his action, public agitation resulted in the organization of a committee of representative men to study the subject with the idea of making a report and drafting a bill for submission to the legislature of 1913, to authorize the proposed change in Honolulu's charter.

The result of this agitation is a real awakening on the subject of more efficient city government. Discussion of the short-ballot plan will be one of the main issues before the legislature of 1913. There are indications that Honolulu will be given a chance to vote on a new city charter authorized by this legislature.

The above are but two of the many earnest and progressive movements for good government that have evolved during 1912.
